Lussmanns wins two new awards for sustainability

Lussmanns Fish & Grill Restaurants in St Albans and Hertford have received two new awards in recognition of their environmentally-friendly credentials.

This week, the small independent restaurant group won the Hertfordshire Green Award 2012 for the Best Hotel or Hospitality Environmental Programme. Lussmanns also picked up a 2012 Janey Lee Grace Platinum Award in the newly created restaurant category of the awards, which recognise the best products and providers in natural health, beauty and wellbeing.

Andrei Lussmann said: “Sustainability starts locally and so it’s great to be recognised for our work in this area.”

Author and Radio 2 presenter Janey Lee Grace said: “It was great to introduce the new categories, the TLC, Readers, and Highly Commended awards, also being able to span out into the area of restaurants. We got through quite a few of those between us over the months but admittedly nowhere near the amount we would have liked to try - that would be a year’s work and a large amount of put on weight I think!! Lussmanns in St Albans Hertfordshire a worthy winner though. Three of our judges dined incognito and were ultra-impressed. Locally sourced, sustainable and superb!”
